

‘My Mother’

by a student in 2nd Year, 2020.

The person I admire the most is none other than my mother. I admire her the most as she possesses all of the qualities that I think we should have in order to succeed in life. I think one of the most endearing qualities she possesses is genuineness. When you meet a genuine person, they tend to look you directly in the eye. That’s exactly what my mother does.

She is very patient, supporting me in everything I do. She doesn’t scold me whenever I fail at something. Instead, she supports and consoles me. She make all kinds of sacrifices, spending a lot of time teaching me. Only because of her do I get good grades. She has always been my source of inspiration and pillar of strength. In my many extra-curricular activities, I always have her support.

My mom is the person who is always there for me, the one who I can always count on and the one who never turns her back on me. She is very hard working. First, she wakes up early in the morning, cooks food, gets me ready for school and goes to work. When she comes back, she does the household chores and later helps me with my studies. I think a mother can take the place of anyone but nobody can take the place of a mother. She always stands with me in good times and bad.

For example, when I was young, my mom wanted me to learn piano. I really struggled at that time, so rather than letting me struggle, she learnt the piano herself just so she could teach me! She didn't even get an hour for herself because she was busy with me all the time. I really admire how she gave up everything just for me. She is the one who has taught me to be honest and to have good manners. She always says "A sinner is better than a liar." I always try to remember this. Every lesson she has given to me is of great significance. I really appreciate my mom as she does everything she can for me without ever asking for anything in return. She does so much for me that if I thanked her every time she did something, I would be saying thank you all day.

If I ever fall sick, she will spend her night taking care of me instead of sleeping. However, when she is sick, she always helps me with my studies and any problems I may have. Also, whenever my mom scolds and shouts at me, I don't become angry as I know how much she loves me and whatever she does has a good reason. I help her with whatever I can as I know how she feels at the end of the day; wrecked. Her lessons and her sayings have impressed and inspired me the most. Without a doubt, I love and admire her a lot. She really is the best. No one can be compared to a mother, especially mine...
